

Notes on Contributors

Deborah Azaryad Shechter teaches English and Turkish in the Division of Languages at Tel Aviv University, Israel. Her fields of expertise include test-writing, course site design and materials development. She is a firm believer in positive psychology to improve language teaching and learning. Her recent research focuses on the teacher's role in student well-being and successful language learning. Her professional development workshops at several universities in Poland, Portugal, Russia and Turkey have received high praise from hosts and participants. She regularly presents at international conferences.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-9956-7143>

Contact details: Division of Languages, Webb Building, Tel Aviv University, Ramat Aviv, 6997801, Israel (ushechte@tauex.tau.ac.il).

Kinji Ito, PhD, is Assistant Professor of Japanese at Appalachian State University in North Carolina, USA. His research interests include Japanese-English translation, language pedagogy, and second language acquisition. Prior to coming to the current institution, Kinji taught Japanese language, culture, and translation courses at the University of Pennsylvania, USA.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-9458-4454>

Contact details: Appalachian State University, 261 Locust Street, Boone, NC 28608-2063 USA (itok@appstate.edu).

Tomasz Róg, PhD, is Assistant Professor in the Department of Philology, Stanisław Staszic University of Applied Sciences in Piła, Poland. He is an EFL teacher, teacher trainer, and material writer. He specializes in applied linguistics, with particular reference to language teaching. His research interests focus on task-based language teaching, intercultural competence, and creativity. Tomasz Róg has authored papers and monographs and regularly participates in conferences organized in Poland and abroad. His professional experience encompasses teaching subjects pertaining to linguistics, language teaching methodology, BA seminars, and EFL at different levels.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-9220-3870>

Contact details: Stanisław Staszic University of Applied Sciences, ul. Podchorążych 10, 64-920 Piła, Poland (tomaszrog@yahoo.co.uk).

Saeed Roshan, PhD, is a lecturer at the School of Language and Culture at Auckland University of Technology (AUT) in Auckland, New Zealand. Dr Roshan has extensive experiences in teaching EFL and ESL in Iran and New Zealand. His main research interests include written corrective feedback and cognitive aptitudes for second language acquisition. His previous publications have appeared in journals including Journal of Second Language Writing and Journal of Studies in Education.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-3163-9803>

Contact details: Auckland University of Technology, School of Language and Culture, Auckland, New Zealand (sroshan@aut.ac.nz).