

Notes on Contributors

Sonja Babić is currently working as a post-doctoral researcher at the University of Graz. She is also a research assistant on an Erasmus+ funded “Global Citizenship and Multilingual Competences (GCMC)” project as of September 2020. She is a certified TESOL teacher and was teaching English as a foreign language before pursuing her academic positions. Her interests lie in the psychology of language learning and teaching, teacher wellbeing, positive psychology, positive language education, and global skills and citizenship.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-1004-3090>

Contact details: University of Graz, Institute of English Studies, Liebiggasse 9, Graz, 8010, Austria (sonja.babic@uni-graz.at)

Driss Benattabou is Professor of English at the Department of English, Faculty of Arts and Humanities, Meknes, Morocco. He holds a PhD from Moulay Ismail University, Meknes, Morocco. He has published a number of articles in such research areas as applied linguistics, gender in education, critical discourse analysis and visual semiotics.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-4240-1390>

Contact details: Moulay Ismail University, FLHS, Marjane 2, BP: 298, Meknes 50050, Morocco (d.benattabou@umi.ac.ma)

Abdelouahed Bouih is a PhD student at the English Department in Moulay Ismail University, Meknes, Morocco. He has published a number of articles in such research areas as applied linguistics, gender studies and educational psychology.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-2197-9479>

Contact details: Moulay Ismail University, FLHS, Marjane 2, BP: 298, Meknes 50050, Morocco (abdelouahed.bouih@gmail.com)

Kata Csizér is Associate Professor at the Department of English Applied Linguistics of the School of English and American Studies at Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest, Hungary. Her research focuses on applied linguistics with a special focus on motivation in second-language learning and teaching students with special needs. She is the author along with Zoltán Dörnyei and Nóra Németh of three seminal papers on motivation in second language learning. Apart from motivation in second language learning, she is also noted for her work on the inclusion of deaf learners into the foreign language classroom.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-1755-8142>

Contact details: Eötvös Loránd University, Department of English Applied Linguistics, Rákóczi út 5, Budapest, H-1088, Hungary (weinkata@yahoo.com)

Astrid Mairitsch is currently working as a pre-doc research assistant on the FWF-funded project “The Psychological Capital of Foreign Language Teachers.” Alongside this project, she is pursuing her PhD aimed at exploring how teachers in Austria are portrayed in Austrian newspapers, using critical discourse analysis. She is Lecturer at the Departments of English Studies as well as Psychology and Philosophy at the University of Graz. Her research interests lie in (positive) psychology, psychology of language learning and teaching, wellbeing, and (language) teacher status.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-9885-3399>

Contact details: University of Graz, Institute of English Studies, Liebiggasse 9, Graz, 8010, Austria (astrid.mairitsch@uni-graz.at)

Sarah Mercer is Professor of Foreign Language Teaching and Head of the ELT methodology department at the University of Graz, Austria. Her research interests include all aspects of the psychology surrounding the foreign language learning experience. She has published around 150 book chapters and journal articles in the area. She has served as Principal Investigator on several funded research projects, including currently a large FWF-funded project investigating language teacher wellbeing across the career trajectory and an Erasmus+ project with 4 international partners examining plurilingual pedagogies and global citizenship competences. In 2018, she was awarded the Robert C. Gardner Award for excellence in second language research by the International Association of Language and Social Psychology (IALSP).

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-2558-8149>

Contact details: University of Graz, Institute of English Studies, Liebiggasse 9, Graz, 8010, Austria (sarah.mercer@uni-graz.at) Bendaoud Nadif is a PhD student at the English Department, Moulay Ismail University, Meknes, Morocco. He is a high school teacher of English. He has published articles in research areas such as applied linguistics and language learning.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-6278-1808>

Contact details: Moulay Ismail University, FLHS, Marjane 2, BP: 298, Meknes 50050, Morocco (bendaoudnadif@gmail.com)

Sun Shin is a pre-doc research assistant at the University of Graz, Austria. She is a certified CELTA and TESOL teacher and taught English as a foreign language in South Korea and Thailand. She also worked as an English instructor at International Graduate School of English, South Korea. She is pursuing her PhD at the University of Graz after receiving her MA in TEFL from International Graduate School of English, South Korea. Her research interests lie in teacher wellbeing, emotional wellbeing, and language teacher psychology.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-4380-8459>

Contact details: University of Graz, Institute of English Studies, Liebiggasse 9, Graz, 8010, Austria (eun.shin@uni-graz.at)

Orit Zeevy Solovey teaches English in the Division of Languages at Tel Aviv University, Israel. She holds an MSc in TESOL from Queens College, City University of New York, USA, and a BA in English literature and education from Queens College, City University of New York, USA. She designs and coordinates advanced English courses for students of physiotherapy, occupational therapy, and social sciences. Her recent research focuses on how EFL students perceive and engage with teachers' grammatical corrective feedback. She regularly presents at international academic conferences.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-2611-0366>

Contact details: Division of Languages, Tel Aviv University, Ramat Aviv, Tel Aviv 6997801, Israel (solovey@tauex.tau.ac.il)

Giulia Sulis is a senior post-doctoral researcher and principal investigator in an FWF-funded project at the University of Graz, Austria. She graduated from the University of Groningen with an MA in applied linguistics and pursued her PhD in linguistics and English language at Lancaster University, UK. She was previously employed as Associate Lecturer in Literacy and Education and tutor of English for Academic Purposes (EAP) at Lancaster University, and as Lecturer of Introduction to Communicative Language Teaching at the University of Graz. Her research interests lie in the psychology of language learning and teaching. Her current research focuses on teacher wellbeing, L2 motivation and engagement, and willingness to communicate.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-8438-6275>

Contact details: University of Graz, Institute of English Studies, Liebiggasse 9, Graz, 8010, Austria (giulia.sulis@uni-graz.at)

Joanna Zawodniak, PhD, is Associate Professor and Head of the Institute of Modern Languages at the University of Zielona Góra, Poland. Her major research interests involve individual learner differences (especially boredom, motivation, anxiety, grit), metaphorical competence, metalinguistic awareness, print awareness, code-switching, socio-historical psychology in relation to L2 education and young learner SLA. She is the author of two monographs devoted to the child-friendly lexically driven syllabus and L2 writing instruction, and co-author (with Mirosław Pawlak and Mariusz Kruk) of a book focusing on boredom in the foreign language classroom.

ORCID ID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-3219-145X>

Contact details: University of Zielona Góra, Institute of Modern Languages, al. Wojska Polskiego 71a, 65-762 Zielona Góra, Poland (j.zawodniak@in.uz.zgora.pl)